BEING
A Diet for Mental Dyspepsia—A Salad
for Small Antagonies,
AND A SALVE FOR BAD CUTS.
The whole carefully compounded and put up

BY OUR SERIES EDITOR.
NUMBER CCXV.

Brown desiring to take part in the Velocipede Tournament at the Rink next week, goes out to Manayunk to practise. He secures a "tricycle," as being less liable to upset. He says "a child can manage it."

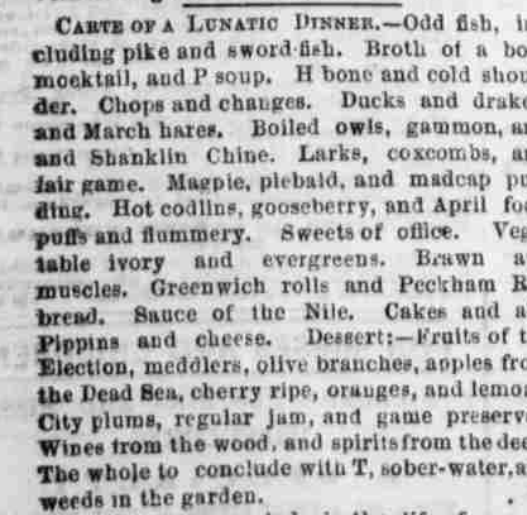

Practising on the "Ridge," he turns off to go down towards the Wissahickon. The hill was steeper than he supposed. Farmer Gillingham's dogs assail him, but are ignominiously defeated. Brown thinks it ought to have a brake for occasions like this.

He gets a "break," but not so well arranged as the one the machinist would make. It, however, the effect of stopping him. Brown says he was never so much put out in his life. He believes that velocipede travelling wants a good deal of practice.

Brown gathers up the "wreck" to return to his hotel. He is ashamed to return by the road, so takes to the fields. An open winter and a mild spring, though favorable to navigation on the river, are not so favorable to velocipede travelling. Brown's opinion was, when last heard from, that "the velocipede, as a vehicle of general travel, is a failure."

CARVE OF A LUNATIC DINNER.—Odd fish, including pike and sword-fish. Broth of a boy, mackerel, and P soup. H bone and cold shoulder. Chops and changes. Ducks and drakes, and March hares. Boiled owls, gammon, and fair game. Maple, piebald, and madcap pudding. Hot collins, gooseberry, and April fool, puffs and flummery. Sweets of office. Vegetable ivory and evergreens. Brawn and muscles. Greenwich rolls and Peckham Eye bread. Sauce of the Nile. Cakes and ale. Pippins and cheese. Dessert:—Fruits of the Election, meddlers, olive branches, apples from the Dead Sea, cherry jam, oranges, and lemons. City plums, regular jam, and game preserves. Wines from the wood, and spirits from the deep. The whole to conclude with T, sober-water, and weeds in the garden.

There are two periods in the life of man at which he is too wise to tell woman the exact truth—when he is in love, and when he isn't.

THE CHANT OF THE HYPOCRITE.

FOR MUSIC.
Humility is my game!
Few
Guess at my little aim.
I am so oily, coily, holy, lowly, sleek, and meek
That there's always a little blush of shame
On my modest, downcast cheek.
I'm such a perfect sneak!
When
Nobody else is by,
Then
Boldly I lift my eye:
I am so very merry, laughing, chaffing,
Bright, and light;
I enjoy myself always on the sly,
When there's nobody in sight,
I am a humming quite!
Do,
Look at my gentle smiles!
You
Notice my back-set tie?
I look so mildlike, chuddlike, creepsy, HERR-Y-gram and bam!
I'm a grovelling creature, full of guile—
What a thorough-paced scamp I am!
Oh, I am a downright sham.

A certain Sunday School teacher was in the habit of making a collection in his juvenile class for missionary objects. He was not a little surprised one day to find a counterfeit shilling among the coppers, and on asking the class who put it there, the donor was pointed out to him by one who had seen him deposit it.

"Didn't you know that this was good for nothing?" said the teacher.

"Yes," answered the boy.

"Then what did you put it in the box for?"

The boy coolly replied, "I didn't s'pose the little heathens would know the difference; so I thought it would be just as good for them."

A boy on board a steamer got up quite a panic among the passengers recently. He bolted suddenly into the cabin one morning, before the passengers had fairly rubbed their eyes open, exclaiming, "We are lost!" "Lost!" exclaimed another. "Lost!" screamed out the whole crew. "Yes, lost," said the lad, astonished at the alarm he had created. "I know we are lost, because the captain's on top of the house, and another man's upon the mast, looking to see where we are!"

In one of the English colleges, a competitive examination was lately held for the purpose of appointing fit persons to some of the Government offices. One of the candidates inadvertently spelled the word Venice with two n's, thus—Vennice. The examiner, a clever man, but not always a correct speaker, sternly inquired:—"Do you know, sir, that there is but one hen in Venice?" "Then eggs must be very scarce there," was the ready reply. The candidate passed.

"Rob Roy" sends us the following conundrums:—

What blossom, deprived of one of its letters, becomes what all young misses desire to possess? A (c)lover.

What blossom, deprived of one of its letters, is oftentimes sent by lovers? (P)ink.

What flowers speak the sweetest words to friends, and the bitterest to enemies? T-u-lips.

A man was found in an up-town gutter the other day, and on being roused to consciousness and asked to explain how he came there, got off the following by way of explanation:—

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And so likewise do I!
The reason, too, 's the same,
It comes of getting dry!"

But there's the difference 'twixt leaves and me, I fall more harder and more frequently."

An old lady was asked what she thought of one of her neighbors by the name of Jones, and with a very knowing look she replied:—"Why, I don't like to say anything about my neighbors; but as to Mr. Jones—sometimes I think—and then again I don't know—but, after all, I rather guess he'll turn out a good deal such a sort of a man as I take him to be."

Among the curious tombstone inscriptions which have come to our ears lately are the following:—

Here lies Peter,
Where he's gone, and how he fares,
Nobody knows and nobody cares.

A happy pendant to this is the following:—
In memory of Jane Bent.
Who kicked up her heels,
And away she went.

A clergyman says it is curious to note how many people attend a circus "only because they want to please their children; but still more curious to observe that in many instances it takes two or three able-bodied men, with as many women, to look after one little boy or girl."

MIGHT AND MAIN.—Hood, in describing the meeting of a man and a lion, said the man ran off with all his might, and the lion with all his mane.

THE HEIGHT OF MODESTY.—The most bashful girl we ever knew was one who blushed when she was asked if she had not been courting sleep.

ZOOLOGICAL.—Naturalists tell us that such a thing as a mouse is not now to be found on the Catskill Mountains.

A man recently killed himself on the novel ground that his wife wished to get a divorce from him, and he wanted to spite her.

If brooks are, as poets call them, the most joyous things in nature, what are they always murmuring about?

Why is wheat like a baby?—Because it is first cradled, then thrashed, and then becomes the flour of the family.

If you want to get more than one hundred cents for a dollar, invest it in a bottle of perfumery.

Why is America like the act of reflection?—Because it is a roomy nation.

Fond of Misfortune.—The lovers of Burns.

A post which carries most of our letters.—The lamp post.

Abiding Friendship.—That of shoemakers, they are true to the last.

LONG DIVISION.—Divorce.
